TERMINUS

An immersive exhibition of new drawings, painting, sculpture, and original music by Oxford artist William Lowry, Terminus combines contemporary and classical references to explore questions of continuation and finality.

Modern materials and traditional approaches meet in intimate portraits of figures who are both inhuman and all too human. Lowry's finely detailed soldiers, sportsmen, sons, and lovers – caught in moments of play, contemplation, and crisis – suggest the destabilizing force of an always shifting cultural gaze.

ABOUT WILLIAM LOWRY

William Lowry's practice combines drawing, printmaking, painting, sculpture, and sound to address themes of personal and collective memory, masculinity and queer desire, myth and modernity. In his installations industrial steel frames, polythene sheets, MDF models and salvaged car parts provide the skeletons of miniature dystopian worlds in which questions of power and its aesthetics, and how these inform ideas of eros and traditional manhood, come to the fore.

William Lowry has a BFA from Oxford University (2023), where he was awarded the Pembroke College Emery Prize and the Ashmolean Museum's Vivien Leigh Prize for drawing. He has exhibited in the Ashmolean Museum's After Hours Avant Garde programme, at Modern Art Oxford, and London's OXO and Bargehouse galleries.

With thanks to Pembroke JCR Art Gallery for hosting Terminus as part of the Emery prize.
